Component Mission

The Office of the Director of National Intelligence (ODNI) Deputy Director of National Intelligence for Intelligence Integration (DDNI/II) serves as the Director of National Intelligence's (DNI) senior leader for intelligence integration across the IC enterprise. DDNI/II is responsible for ensuring customer outcomes by leading advances in collection and analysis that ensure the quality, timeliness, and utility of insights for the nation's decision-makers. Additionally, DDNI/II is responsible for increasing expertise and improving tradecraft at all levels through specialization, integration, and collaboration. DDNI/II is responsible for the strategic vision, direction, and planning to deliver a more integrated IC reflecting the collective wisdom of our collection and analytic components to advance, in support of the National Intelligence Managers, the Unifying Intelligence Strategies (UIS).

Senior analysts/editors on the NIC's Analysis and Production Staff (NIC/APS) provide expert advice and feedback to drafters of the entire suite of NIC analytic products, including National Intelligence Estimates (NIEs), Intelligence Community Assessments (ICAs), and shorter memoranda to support meetings of the Principals and Deputies committees. Working closely with National Intelligence Officers (NIOs) and Deputy National Intelligence Officers (DNIOs), the NIC Front office, and the NIC Tradecraft Cell, senior analysts/editors participate fully in the conceptualization, refinement, and delivery of insightful and rigorous IC analysis on the most challenging national security issues. Senior analysts/editors assist drafters in incorporating insights from across the IC while ensuring analytic rigor, provision of insight, and the meeting of tight deadlines. Senior analysts/editors also represent the NIC at daily PDB feedback meetings, regularly participate in NIC peer reviews, and guide drafters through the entire NIE process, including approval by IC seniors at meetings of the National Intelligence Board (NIB). The senior analyst/editor position provides current and prospective first line supervisors with valuable experience in conceptualizing, editing, and providing tradecraft and presentational feedback to drafters of analytic products ranging from in-depth NIEs to short-fuse policy support memoranda. A NIC/APS senior analyst/editor position provides an excellent rotational opportunity (1+1) for GS-15 and high-performing GS-14 officers; it includes Joint Duty credit.

Major Duties and Responsibilities (MDRs)

- Apply expert knowledge of analytic tradecraft and expert knowledge of grammar, punctuation, writing standards, and customers' format preferences, in order to develop intelligence products that facilitate the rapid comprehension of complex substantive issues in a variety of intelligence publications that meet customer needs and demands.

OFFICE OF THE DIRECTOR OF NATIONAL INTELLIGENCE

L E A D I N G I N T E L L I G E N C E I N T E G R A T I O N

- Review draft publications for clarity, brevity, organization, logic, and grammar, and work with author to add context as necessary; ensure that the information selected is relevant and adds value to the intelligence products and ensure that each publication is concise and easily understood for policymaker customers.
- Work collaboratively with APS editors and production officers, and NIOs and Deputy NIOs to ensure all NIC products meet the highest standards of analytic tradecraft and quality presentation.
- Lead the compilation and preparation of, using editorial expertise, high-quality, relevant finished intelligence products for individuals at the highest levels of government including the President of the United States (POTUS), Vice President of the United States (VPOTUS), and other senior policymakers including the White House Chief of Staff, National Security Advisor, Secretaries of Defense and State, and the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.
- Ensure that publications provide compelling and convincing information to support arguments contained in the intelligence publications; and task analysts to clarify factual data and analytic methodologies.
- Lead, analyze, interpret, and integrate information for intelligence publications directing the use of a variety of formats such as graphs and tables, data bases, and spreadsheets, and implement new media formats and products that will ensure messages are delivered clearly and with the greatest impact.
- Represent the organization by participating in conferences and exchanges with non-governmental subject matter experts, writing conference reports, and contributing to the content of the organization's web sites.

Mandatory and Educational Requirements

- Expert and in-depth knowledge of analytical and presentational tradecraft and IC policy and procedures.
- Excellent oral and written communication skills and demonstrated ability to conduct independent research, filter and synthesize analytic data, and produce clear, logical, and concise intelligence products.
- Excellent analytical and critical thinking skills, including an ability to think strategically.
- Expert and in-depth knowledge and understanding of NIC mission and structure as well as a detailed understanding of the content and meaning of its intelligence products.
- Exceptional interpersonal skills and ability to work effectively and collaboratively with individuals at all levels of government; confidence and effectiveness in working with government officials, fellow NIC colleagues, and senior ODNI officers.
- Excellent time management skills and ability to prioritize tasks with competing deadlines and ability to work effectively under extremely tight deadlines.
- Ability to apply IC analytic standards and analytic tradecraft standards as defined in the Intelligence Reform and Terrorism Prevention Act and in Intelligence Community Directives (ICD) 203 "Analytic Standards" and ICD 206 "Sourcing Requirements" to the production of all-source intelligence products.

Desired Requirements

- Familiarity with the full range of NIC publications, including National Intelligence Estimates, Intelligence Community Assessments, NIC Memoranda, Sense of the Community Memoranda, and NIC Reports.
